Social Science Data Archivist

I have been manager and director of the UCLA Social Science Data Archive since 1977. Our mission is to provide a foundation for social science research and teaching support. Data Archive staff and researchers work in a collaborative environment where the focus is on understanding the nature and scope of research approach and management of research output throughout the entire life cycle of a project. The Data Archive is one of the key support components in those disciplines that provide instruction in research methods, survey design and methods, statistics, and data analysis. Throughout the campus, data provided by the Archive (through memberships in organizations such as ICPSR and Roper) is used by faculty in courses to transmit pedagogy, illustrate theory and develop understanding of social, political, demographic, economic, geographic and historical trends and issues. I have often served as a lecturer in the UCLA department of Information Studies and in many social science departments and professional schools. I am a frequent presenter at national and international conferences including American Library Association, International Federation of Library Associations, Society of American Archivists, and the International Association for Social Science Information Services and Technology. Additional professional work is listed below.
